

Rest & Regulate

A 90-day breath-paced planner for small returns

Arden Vellor

THE RITUAL LIBRARY

A note before you begin

This planner offers optional grounding and paced-breathing practices for personal reflection. It does not treat anxiety, change the nervous system, improve HRV, or replace medical or mental-health care. Choose a natural, comfortable breath; stop any practice that feels unpleasant.

There is no perfect breath. Let the practices remain optional, easy, and adapted to the day you have.

Prepublication candidate: do not publish until the brand-owned QR/audio route, claims review, KDP preflight, and physical-proof gates are complete.

A practice can be small enough to keep.

This planner does not measure your calm. It gives you a place to notice: how did I arrive, what did I try, and what might support me next?

Choose your practices

Breath holds are never required. A natural exhale, visual orientation, or a pause can be enough.

PRACTICES I PREFER TO SKIP OR ADAPT

MY PERSONAL SIGNS OF “A LITTLE MORE SETTLED”

Day 1 · a small return

"Name three things you can see. What changes when you let your eyes rest on one?"

CHOOSE A GENTLE PRACTICE

- | | |
|---|--|
| ☐ look around slowly | ☐ lengthen the exhale |
| ☐ feel my feet / support | ☐ take a brief pause |

BEFORE: WHAT AM I NOTICING?

AFTER: WHAT, IF ANYTHING, SHIFTED?

ONE KIND NEXT STEP

NOTES

Day 2 · a small return

“Let your exhale be unforced. What is one word for how you arrive?”
