

Back to Enough

A compassionate productivity rescue workbook

Arden Vellor

THE RITUAL LIBRARY

A note before you begin

This workbook offers gentle planning and self-reflection. It does not diagnose or treat burnout, depression, anxiety, or any medical or workplace condition. Adapt, pause, or seek professional support as needed.

This workbook is designed for low-capacity days. You are invited to make the plan smaller until it becomes possible.

When capacity is low, the answer is not more pressure.

Use these pages to decide what matters today, what can wait, and how to build a little recovery into the day you actually have.

My early signs

Recognizing the signal early is a form of skill, not failure.

SIGNS I MAY NEED A SMALLER PLAN

WHAT RESTORATION CAN LOOK LIKE FOR ME

THE FOUR MOVES

Delay. Delegate. Delete. Do imperfectly.

When a task feels immovable, try one of the four moves. This is not a test of willpower; it is an invitation to work with the resources you have.

Day 1 · rescue the day, not the whole life

“What is the smallest version of today that still counts?”

CAPACITY TODAY

☐ low

☐ medium

☐ generous

MUST HAPPEN

COULD HAPPEN

CAN WAIT / DELEGATE / DELETE

A 10-MINUTE RESET

ONE WIN I WILL COUNT

Day 2 · rescue the day, not the whole life

“What must happen, what could happen, and what can wait?”
